I. Dean Null spoke to the Committee about reviewing the College requirements and asked the Committee to prepare an agenda.

II. Approval of the Following Courses:

A. ID 200-3, Mathematics: A Human Endeavor. New course.
Course description changed to read as follows:

An introductory course in mathematics as a liberal art.
Designed to demonstrate the beauty of mathematics, its methods, and its place in human endeavors. Recommended for those who like the subject and for those who think they don't.

B. Hon. 480-3, What is Mathematics?. New course.
Prerequisites changed to read "High School geometry" instead of "Secondary geometry" and course description changed to read as follows:

Takes the student from problems of mathematical competitions to open problems. Demonstrates the interaction of various areas of mathematics using problems of combinatorial geometry as a background. A useful course for math majors, math teachers, and for the curious natural science major.

C. Phil. 120-3, Philosophy and Feminism. New course.
